DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to Applicant's arguments filed on 12/14/2007. Claim(s) 6 and 7 are pending. Claims 1-5 have been cancelled. Claim(s) 6 and 7 have been amended. Claim(s) 6 and 7 are examined herein.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's amendments have rendered the 112 second paragraph rejections moot, therefore hereby withdrawn.

Applicant's amendments have rendered the 101 rejections moot, therefore hereby withdrawn.

Applicant's arguments with respect to the 102(b) rejection of Properly have been fully considered and are found persuasive, said rejection is hereby withdrawn.

In view of Applicant's amendments, the following rejection is being made in the office action that follows.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 1617

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stoner et al. (US Patent No. 6,403,640 B1) as evidenced by Stevermer (American family Physician, 2000).

Stoner discloses methods of treating chronic pelvic syndrome comprising the administration of a combination of a COX-2 inhibitor and an alpha-1a blocker such as tamsulosin (column 3, lines 55-59; claims 2 and 4).

It is known in the art that patients with chronic nonbacterial prostatitis/chronic pelvic pain syndrome (CNP/CPPS) have symptoms, as evidenced by Stevermer, consistent with prostatitis, such as painful ejaculation or pain in the penis, testicles or scrotum, complaints of lower pain, rectal or perineal pain, and often have irritative or obstructive urinary symptoms (page 3020, column 1, 1st full paragraph-column 2, paragraph continued).

Thus the limitations of claim 6 and 7 are met.

Conclusion

No claims are allowed.
